THE Hiogo News says :- The Japanese steamer Fukusawa-maru, which arrived here few days sgo and is still in port, has a somewhat remarkable history. While engaged in the cattle trade she was sunk in the Thames, where she lay for about two years; After being raised she hoisted the Russian flag, receiving the name of Grand Duke Constantine. Her change of flag did not change her ill luck, for she was continually in trouble, repairs being necessary at every port at which she touched, until she was finally soized for debt by the Shanghai Dock Company. She then ran successfully for some time on the coasts of China and Japan under the British flag, until she got on the rocks outside Hakodate and became a total wreck. She was purchased at auction by some Japanese, who succeeded in raising her, and she is now running on the coast again under the Japanese flag. It is to be hoped that her present owners will have more success with her than their ore-

HONGKONG RIFLE ASSOCIATION.

The annual meeting of the Hongkong Rifle Association was held in the Hongkong Hotel this afternoon. Col. Anderson was called to the chair, and there were also present Hon. P. Ryris, Mr E. L. Woodin, Mr A. Woolley, Mr.G. L. Tomlin, Mr E. Osborne, Mr J. Grant, and Capt. E. Burnie.

The Chairman said the accounts were before the meeting. They showed a balance of $58. Their outstanding debts were to the Hongkong and Whampon Dock Company $558.11 for targets, and $70 to Messrs Danby and Leigh for making range. There was, however, some delay in completing these ranges, and he thought they might daily receipts are said to be nearly 100,000 The smoking apartments are divided into classes of which there are four. In the cheapest, or number 4, you will find coolies who about 110 cash for their smoke; in the next houseboys and others who indulge to the extent of 120 cash; in number 2. small shopkespars and the like who pay 130 cash, while in number 1, the dearest, the charge is 150 cash. The boxes in each contain very nearly the same quantity of the drug, about one mace. It is the difference in the kind of pipe which principally regulates the price paid by the opium smoker. The best is made of ivery, with the atom often inlaid with stones, and rendered more costly by reason of the elaborate curving, the ordinary cost of a pipe of this kind being $150. The next has a good deal of silver in its composition, and costs somewhere about $30 each. The third is made of bamboo and brass; and is valued at about $15; the fourth is made of a hard wood and is worth only a few dollars. There are in all about 100 pipes, and the entire number are often pulling togother Most of the smokers are in couples, as in the g neral custom. The smoking rooms are furnished according to class. In the most expensive, the lounge upon which the smoker reclines is of fina velvet with, pillows of the same material. In the centre of each is a small stand for the lamp. These rooms contain about fifty such couches. The frames of each are inlaid with mother-o'-pearl; and jade, which add greatly to their value. There is one in particular which would fill a lover of oriental furniture with ravishment, so exquisite is the inlaying. The walls are covered with very tolerable Chinese ideas of art. The whole air of these rooms is one of sensuous luxury. There are some two dozen special rooms for the smoker who desites to enjoy his pipe in solitade, or only with one other person, away from the common herd. Here we open the door for a moment and are surprised to find many Chinamen, who cutzide profess to detest the very name of opium. Trusted compradors of foreign hongs may here be often caught at the illicit pleasure of the pipe. You will also generally find in the poorest section many shaven crowns, without the queue, and recognise in the tattered yellow and grey robes the forms of the priests from Buddhist or Taoist temples. The great majority of the amokers in the place are men, but there is still a fair percentage of female votaries of the pipe, to be found here. These bowever are chiefly of the singing girl, or concubing class, as a decent China-woman, however poor or low, seldom comes here. You may pethaps come across a presture with glassy eyes and loud vacant laugh, whom you think you know, and on looking closer you recognise your houseboy whom you fondly believed to be above the alightest suspicion of optum, while all the time he was an abject slave to the seductions of the vice, spending his earnings. and supplementing them by trifling pillerings to supply the fexious furnes. You understandnow, how it is that he looked so ill and emaciated of late, his stupidity in carrying out your orders, and the mysterious disappearance of aundry little articles from your drawers at home. Go up to him, and speak, and, see, he does not appear to feel the least abathed at being detected in his enthralling vice, but laughs vacantly at you, and plies his piece of wire once more to turn the viscid drop of opium which he prepares to furnish himself with another transitory pleasurable sensation. You tell him that you require him no more, but the intelligence does not just then affect him in the least, so deeply is he under the spell of the intoxication. Return another day, and you will most likely find him amongst the wrotched shivering idiotic crowd who jabber about the door outside: It is commonly believed that a sleet

THE CHINA REVIEW

PUBLISHED BL-MONTHLY TENTH YEAR.

IHIS Review, which was intended to meet the wants of many students of Chinese caused by the discontinuance of ' Notes and Queries on China and Japan,' has reached its Fourteenth Volume. The Review discusses those topics which are uppermost in the minds of students of the 'Far East' and about which every intelligent person connected with China or Japan is desirous of acquiring trustworthy information. It includes many interesting Notes and original Papers on the Arts, Sciences, Ethnology, Folklere, Geography, History, Literature, Mythology, Natural History, Antiquities, and Social Manners and Customs, etc., etc., be of China, Japan, Mongolia, Tibet, and the Far East generally. Recently a new departure has been taken, and the Review now gives papers on Trade, Commerce, and Descriptive notes of Travel by well-known writers. The present publication, judging by the number now before us, is intended to occupy a position, as regards China and the neighbouring countries, some what similar to that which has been filled in India by the Calcutta Review. The great degree of attention that has been bestowed of late years upon the investigation of Chinese literature, antiquities, and social developments, to say nothing of linguistic studies, has led to the accumulation of important stores of information, rendering some such channel of publicity as is now provided extremely desirable; and contributions of much interest CHINESE DICTIONARY may fairly be locked or from the members of the foreign consular services, the Chinese Customs' corps, and the missionary body, among whom a high degree of Chinese scholarship is now assiduously cultivated, and who are severally represented in the first number of the Review by papers highly creditable to their respective authors Some translations from Chinese novels and plays are marked by both accuracy and freshness of style; and an account of the career of the Chinese poet-statesman of the eleventh century, Su Tung-p'o, by Mr. R. O. Bowra, is not only historically valuable, but is also distinguished by its literary grace. Beside notices of new books relating to China and. the East, which will be a useful feature of the Review, if carried out with punctuality and detail, we are glad to notice that 'Notes' and 'Queries' are destined to nese characters in practical use, and while boned that this opening for contributions
